

DR ROSS RADIC

Dr Ross Radic is an Australian-trained Orthopaedic Surgeon in Perth, Western Australia. He has extended expertise in all aspects of knee and shoulder surgery, particularly anterior cruciate ligament (ACL) reconstruction, multi-ligament knee reconstruction, limb realignment and joint replacement surgery.

Dr Radic completed his subspecialty fellowship training at the Fortius Clinic in London, UK, and has gained experience with visiting stints in Switzerland, Germany, the Netherlands and the Mayo Clinic in the USA. In addition to his clinical work Dr Radic is a founding member and director of the Perth Orthopaedic and Sports Medicine Research Institute where his research focus lies in Anterior Cruciate Ligament Reconstruction, Multi-Ligament Knee Reconstruction and all aspects of knee surgery. Dr Radic is the current co-director of advanced orthopaedic training at Royal Perth Hospital, and maintains an active role as a member of the Australian Knee Society, ISAKOS, AANA and APKASS.